WE HAVE MADE THE START LET'S KEEP GOING

A last continuous reciting of the lesson of self help plans to the community seems to be bearing some fruit. The mercantile return indicate an uptrend which should be continued in. There is an absence of away from home buying which speaks well for the citizenry here who have given the large bulk of their trade to their home merchants and in that manner enable the money made in the community to be left here and not carried away to enrich some other community.

That ought to speak loud enough for even the deafest person to hear and it should be a renewed inspiration for home buying by all.

We can not hope to have our Pickaway County communities to advance, yes even stand still unless we give our business men the support which will keep them going and if we do not keep them going we shall very soon find them gone away to other places.

One so often hears women kind speaking of wonderful bargains obtainable in Columbus or Cincinnati or Dayton or some other city and her enthusiasm enlists other women to emulate her in buying goods in those places but most often none of them have gone over the stocks in local stores to learn what is offered here or if not offered whether it is obtainable here. In nearly every instance these same goods at equal bidding prices can be secured right here at home and then if any mistakes or errors are made the home merchant willingly and readily make them good whereas if they are purchased elsewhere being a stranger and out of personal contact with that foreign merchant the error is left in the hands of the buyer to correct.

So one can at once see that there is a greater advantage in buying at home than abroad.

If you look over the list of offers made on this page you will find nearly every human want listed in goods or service for your enjoyment and advantage.

Why should it be necessary with such an army to go elsewhere? There is no reason at all. You know these merchants and service men. You know they are men of integrity and who stand ready to serve you in any way possible within their lines. You know or ought to know that they will even go out of their way to get what you want.

All they want is the chance to serve you. Give it to them. You have begun to loosen up in this direction and you should keep it going. Let's make our own community the center of our actions in buying.

Ashville Surprises, Defeats New Holland

TIGHT DEFENSE GIVES 30-23 VICTORY TO AL KAUBER'S MEN

New Holland Held Scoreless While Ashville Gets 10 Points To Take Commanding Lead at End of Third Period; Guarding Features Tournament Game; Walnut Loses To Inferior Team.

Ashville high school cage team showed surprising strength Saturday afternoon to eliminate New Holland, Pickaway-co champions, from the district class B tournament. The score was 30-23.

With New Holland having defeated Ashville, 19-14, in the semi-finals a week ago, it was generally expected that the west-county team would again come through but that wasn't to be.

The contest, one of the best played on the day's program, featured defensive play with Ashville outdoing the New Hollanders in the first period, ending in a dead-heat, 5 to 5, but in the second after New Holland scored four goals to two for Ashville and 13-9 at the half.

Ashville won the contest in the third period, scoring 10 points while holding the New Holland team without a point. The contest ended 19-15.

FERRELL TO SIGN OR NOT PLAY BALL

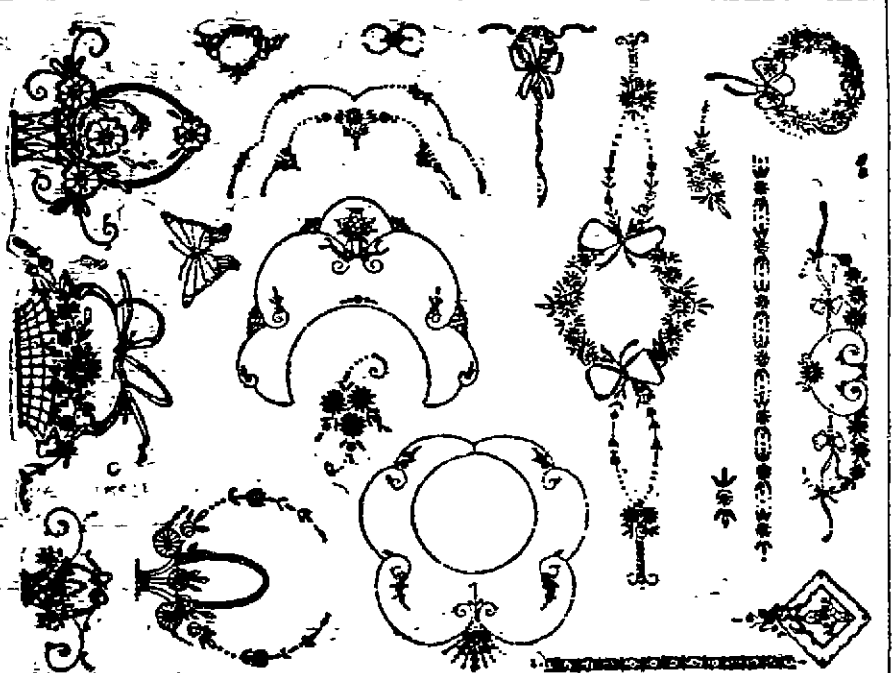

CLEVELAND, March 6.—Wesley Ferrell, star pitcher for the Cleveland Indians and now a holdout because of salary differences, must accept the contract sent him or he will not play organized baseball this season, Alva Bradley, president of the Indians, declared today.

No new deal will be made the ace moundsman, who is regarded as the best right-hand twirler in the American league, Bradley said.

"We have sent our last communication to Ferrell," Bradley said. "He must pitch for Cleveland if he wants to pitch at all."

Bradley denied reports that Ferrell would be sold or traded to another club. The pitcher returned his contract unsigned because it contained a salary of $12,000, whereas last season, he received $18,000.

Even Baby Remembered in The Herald Wonder Package

The designers of The Herald Wonder Package gave much serious consideration to the baby's clothes, pillows, blankets, furniture, etc., and in the accompanying illustration are shown 20 different motifs which may be used for the baby.

First, there is the big pattern right in the center and while being very decorative it would not be difficult to embroider. It could be stamped on a fine quality of batiste and embroidered either in plain white or pale pinks, greens or blues and a bit of yellow (in the way of French knots in center of flowers).

You will not have to worry if some of the transfer lines still show after you have finished your embroidery. These wash out easily. This will be a relief to you who have had trouble with blue lines still being visible after several launderings.

Look at the beautiful wreath in the upper right corner; just the right size for the top of a silk blanket. If the blanket is light blue the flowers might be pink; if the blanket is light pink the flowers might be blue; if the blanket is light yellow the flowers might be pink.

andria copping the bacon. The score was 30-23.

Walnut had clearly the best team but just couldn't click. Failure to connect from the foul line caused the downfall of the Griffith-men, who missed 15 free throws, 11 of them in the first half.

The countants started in the lead 6-5 at the quarter and held a 14-13 margin at the half. They trailed 20-22 at the third period.

Wayne and Charles Brown did almost all of Walnut's scoring, the former with seven field goals and the latter with five action shots and two free throws.

Bob King refereed the Ashville-New Holland game and Ray Dietrich and Mike Hazlet alternated halves of the Walnut-Alexandria scrap.

sacred trust the likeness of callous and selfish wrong-doing.

Restoration calls not for changes in ethics alone. The nation asks for action, and action now.

"Our greatest primary task is to put people to work. This is no unsolvable problem if we face it wisely and courageously. It can be accomplished in part by direct recruiting of the government itself, treating the task as we would treat the emergency of a war..."

We must recognize the overbalance of population in our industrial centers and, by engaging on a national scale in a redistribution, endeavor to provide a better use of the land for those best fitted for the land.

We require two safeguards against a return of the evils of the old order; there must be a strict supervision of all banking and credits and investments; there must be an end to speculation on other people's money, and there must be provision for an adequate but sound currency. These are the lines of attack.

I shall spare no effort to restore world trade by international economic readjustment, but the emergency at home cannot wait on that accomplishment. In the field of world policy, I would dedicate this nation to the policy of the good neighbor.

I assume unhesitatingly the leadership of this great army of our people dedicated to a disciplined attack upon our common problems.

I am prepared under my constitutional duty to recommend the measures that a stricken nation in the midst of a stricken world may require. But in the event Congress shall fail, and in event that the national emergency is still critical, I shall ask the Congress for the one remaining instrument to meet the crisis—broad executive power to wage a war against the emergency, as great as the power that would be given me if we were in fact invaded by a foreign foe.

We do not distrust the future of essential democracy. The people of the United States have never failed. They have asked for discipline and direction under leadership. They have made me the present instrument of their wishes. In the spirit of the gift I take it.

Buckeyes Meet Indiana Squad

CHICAGO, March 6.—Three games tonight will ring down the curtain on the Western conference basketball title race with Ohio State posed on the threshold of an undisputed championship.

Ohio State plays its final game of the season at Indiana, certain of at least a tie for the title as a result of the Buckeye victory over Wisconsin Saturday. Victory in the Indiana game will give the Big Ten leaders their first championship in eight years.

The Buckeye quintet has won ten games and lost but one. In second place is the Northwestern five with ten victories and two defeats. Only an Indiana victory can give Northwestern a tie for the title tonight.

In the other two games this evening Purdue invades Michigan and Chicago meets Wisconsin here.

REIFF HIGH MAN

Joe Reiff, Northwestern forward, finished the season with a new conference scoring record of 166 points, 20 of which were made in the Minnesota affray Saturday night. His record supplanted that of Johnny Wooden of Purdue who scored 154 points last season.

Federal reserve banks or invested in obligations of the United States."

President Roosevelt went back to the war-time trading-with-the-enemy act, enacted Oct. 6, 1917, for authority to establish the four-day financial breathing spell. That act conferred authority upon the executive to "regulate and prohibit transactions in foreign exchange and the export, hoarding, melting, or earmarking of gold or silver coin or bullion or currency."

A series of almost continuous conferences between the President and his cabinet and legislative leaders preceded the issuance of the proclamation.

Approval of the plan was general.

thing," said Secretary of the Treasury Woodin.

"NOW AT BOTTOM"

"We are at the bottom now. We are not going any lower. The American people have lots of courage and if they will only have confidence in our great leader in the White House we will be out of these troubles very soon."

Former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, who remained over in the capital after Saturday's inauguration, agreed with Woodin that "a very real beginning has been made."

Meanwhile, leaders of the new Congress will have a busy period of conferences for the next four days, mapping out emergency legislation upon which the Congress can act when it meets on Thursday. The form and content of this legislation is yet to be determined.

Diverting Gas Taxes

THROUGH their national association the cement manufacturers are disseminating propaganda designed to enlist gasoline users in a movement opposing further diversion of gasoline taxes and automobile license fees from highway uses. The cement industry and gasoline users have a common interest since both want more highway construction and better maintenance.
The association is right when it says that motorists acquiesced when the gasoline tax was first proposed because of promises, expressed or implied, that the money would be used for improving roads.
Not only have the state governments gone to extreme, in pyra-miding the gas tax year after year but they have broken their promise to use the money only for highway purposes. Several states are diverting this income into their general funds, and two—Illinois and New Jersey—have pledged gasoline tax receipts for 20 years for the retirement of bonds having nothing to do with roads.
Most state constitutions forbid special taxes which discriminate against a certain group except for a special purpose, but that seems not to worry the legislators. They get the money on the pretext of using it for the benefit of those they take it from, and once they have the cash the taxpayers may as well whistle up a tree.
Why not enlist in this campaign the jobless who benefit from highway expenditures, 91 per cent of which go into wages and salaries?

Babe Ruth's salary could be several times as high as that of the Babe.

Walsh Will Be Missed

THE man who was president a few hours ago and is now in the twilight between private citizenship and officialdom no doubt is reminded now of the old saying that a good beginning makes a poor ending. And his successor most certainly hopes that a poor beginning makes a good ending.
Although the death of his attorney general on the very eve of inauguration was no light blow to the Roosevelt administration, Senator Walsh would have brought prestige, sage counsel and strong leadership to the new administration. One doubts if his place can quite be filled.
If there were under the Hoover administration any officials whose official acts would not stand the light of day, they are probably breathing a sigh of relief, for public wrongdoers have the greatest respect for the man who prosecuted the Teapot Dome cases. The able manner in which he conducted the oil lease investigation assured him the department of justice portfolio in the Roosevelt administration.
Statistics could prove that cabinet service is more killing than the presidency, but the facts prove otherwise. Cabinet members usually run in age several years older than their chief, and then there is only one chief executive and nine cabinet members.
Civilized people are those who think up a scientific reason for doing things a savage does as a matter of common sense.

No Gas-Tax Deflation

ON the occasion of its fifteenth anniversary last week the gasoline tax received no congratulations except from the hungry tax-makers, and were it to die tomorrow none but those same tax-makers would come to mourn.
When a little shaver content with pennies it was popular with the motoring public which enjoyed the roads built with those pennies, but since it learned to talk in terms of nickels and dimes it has been a bore.
Are the motorists complaining?
They are. And with cause. Fourteen years ago they paid a gas tax bill of only $1,000,000. Today they pay 35 per cent of all state revenue.
And why this pyramiding of the burden upon the users of gasoline?
Because they did not complain.
The inarticulate citizen always gets soaked.
It was a mistake for the motorists to have submitted to the first gas tax without a protest. Loud opposition would have put their legislators in the proper state of mind. And when the politicians first broke their promise to apply all gas tax money to highway construction and maintenance the squawking should have been increased and prolonged.
Every decrease in the motoring population due to the depression moves just that much pressure for tax reduction. So if the gasoline users are determined to obtain a just time to be lost. They are fast losing their dominant position at the polls.

SYNOPSIS

Tom Leach, pirate terror of the Spanish Main and master of the dread "Black Swan," captures the merchant vessel "The Centaur," bound for England, and kills the captain and crew. Passengers aboard the "Centaur" are Priscilla Hardine, lovely, young daughter of the late Captain-General of the Leeward Isles; Major Sands, her father's elderly aide, who hopes to win her hand and fortune; and the handsome young Frenchman, Charles de Bernis, former lieutenant of the buc-caneer, Henry Morgan. The latter reformed and is commissioned by the King of England to rid the seas of pirates. He has tried in vain to capture the elusive Leach. De Bernis, known to Leach of old, protects Priscilla by introducing her as his wife, and the Major, as his brother-in-law. He holds Leach at bay with a promise of great wealth in the form of a Spanish plate fleet scheduled to sail shortly. It is agreed that De Bernis will take command of the "Centaur" and lead Leach to the treasure. The pirate chief reluctantly agrees to De Bernis' suggestion that they careen "The Black Swan" to put it in battle order for their coming encounter with the Spaniards. Leach holds his anger towards De Bernis in check, waiting until the treasure is in his hands.
Despite the fact that he owes his life to De Bernis, Major Sands is hostile towards the Frenchman, feeling superior to him. When Priscilla reproaches him for his apparent ingratitude, he explains it is due to his concern for her safety.
The Major, blunderingly tries to make love to Priscilla who, having always considered him one of the family, is stunned. She draws away from his embrace. He explains that he would gladly die for her because of his affection for her and his friendship for her father.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

With anxious eyes he followed the slim figure, admiring the graceful lines of it, the quiet elegance of her movements, and so waited. She spoke presently, when she had mastered herself.
"Forgive me, Bart. To be sure, I am a little fool. Don't let me appear also an ungrateful one. I owe you so much. I must have died. I think, but for the knowledge that you were standing by me in this awful time. You have made me realize it. It should not have been necessary."
"It is not necessary now," said he, very noble. "Sink me if it is."
And then, being a fool, he must go on to spoil it. "But I rejoice to hear, at least, that you are no longer in the persuasion that you owe everything to this French rogue." Now that is just what, in her generous anxiety to make amends for the injustice of her assumption, she had been in danger of forgetting. His words, acting as a sharp reminder, tempered her penitence.
But she did not pursue the matter, intent at the moment upon making her peace with him.
She turned, and smiled a little shyly in the consciousness of the enormity of her late assumptions.
"Shall we take the air on deck, Bart?"
They went, and beyond the leering eyes of Wogan and Halliwell, on the quarter deck, following her passage thence to the poop, none seemed to notice them.
Monsieur de Bernis was in the captain's cabin, which he had now made his own, astern, on the summit of the poop. He sat with open doors on account of the heat. Seeing their approach, he rose, and came forth, bringing cushions for her day-bed which she found set for her under the awning of sailcloth as it had been before the invasion of the Centaur by her present crew.
When this was done, he lingered on in amiable talk with them, like a courteous host. He mentioned "With him, too, I learned to fight a ship, and I doubt if there was ever a higher school than his for that," said De Bernis.

their altered course, expressed a hope that the breeze might hold, spoke of their destination and the purpose for which they sought the Albuquerque Keys, and in answer to Miss Priscilla's questions regretted that circumstances would delay them there for the best part of a month.

The Major, morose, sat on the tail of the day-bed, of which Miss Priscilla occupied the head, making no contribution to the talk. The notion of spending a month at the Albuquerque Keys filled him with disgust and indignation, and it was only by the exercise of all his powers of repression that he avoided saying so. The cool tone in which De Bernis made the announcement appeared to him as a climax of impudence. And it added fuel to his indignation to observe that Miss Priscilla did not appear to share his feelings. She seemed to accept the situation with a resignation that went very near complacency.
His disgust reached its apex at a question which he heard her ask in a tone of quiet wonder.

"Monsieur de Bernis, how did you become a buccaneer?" Monsieur de Bernis seemed startled by this question, coming so abruptly. He smiled a little as he looked down at her.
"You ask almost as if the fact were difficult to understand. It is a compliment, I suppose. But can you really be interested to know?"
"Should I ask such a question if I were not? The interest must be strong that drives me to an impertinence."
"Not an impertinence," he protested quietly. "Most pertinent since your present situation depends so much upon the fact." He paused a moment, and the long narrow face was overcast with thought, the dark eyes grew almost wistful. "After all, there is so little that you do not know already. Did I not tell you that the Sieur Simon, he whom the Spaniards killed on Santa Catalina, was my uncle? I had come out with him to the New World, in quest of the liberty of their approach, he rose, and came
forth, bringing cushions for her
had been before the invasion of the Centaur by her present crew.
When this was done, he lingered

TROOP 107
The regular meeting was held Friday at 7 p. m. Business was taken care of. Scoutmaster Haack-er spoke about the Scout Circus and other activities. Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Weldon spoke on advancement. Senior Patrol Leader Gilmore spoke on numerous topics.
Scout Dave Steinhauser gave the main speech. This should have been done by Scout John Robinson, but he had to leave early in order to attend band practice.
Steinhauser highly praised Robinson and his parents for helping the troop to get ahead. This met with great approval by everyone present. Robinson has been working hard, and after more than three years in scouting, he came forth with many great ideas and has been in store for the near future. More will be said about his and the troop's progress along the line in another news item of a later date.
Games were played. Dave Jackson led in saying the Scout Pledge. The meeting was then adjourned.
We want to take this opportunity to thank James Smith for the donation of timber for our new building act at the Scout Camp.

LOOKING BACK In Pickaway County

10 YEARS AGO

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA
Gene and Glenn, popular radio team, was the featured entertainment at the Cliftona theatre Monday afternoon and will be seen and heard again this evening. A continuous show was being staged.

Can't a girl stay out all night without having the whole family demanding to know where she's been and what she has been doing? It is possible that her actions might have been as innocent as she said they were?
Goldie La Farge came home from a moonlight boat ride on the Sunday morning after—and was there trouble? Wow! Aunts and uncles and cousins (Goldie was an orphan) all had something—loudly and nastily—to say!
So Goldie walked out of the house with no more baggage than her vanity! Goldie's vanity case, incidentally, indicated her moods —when Goldie started powdering her pretty nose in the midst of an argument something was sure to happen!

She powdered her nose while Bill Tobin was trying to convince her that she belonged in an Idylwild cottage rather than in a Hollywood studio—where'd she get off thinking she could act? Bill didn't know nose-powdering was a danger signal so that Goldie, just to be her independent self, had to walk out on him!
And sure enough, "Goldie Gets Along," as Lili Damita, with Charles Morton, Sam Hardy and others show you at the Cliftona Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

AT THE GRAND

"The Crooked Circle," a new World Wide picture now at the Grand Theatre, defies classification and must therefore stand in a class by itself.
It starts out with the mysterious atmosphere of a "shocker," then has a tendency toward a crook drama and suddenly becomes a blithesome comedy. Before the merriment gets well under way however, mysterious incidents inject themselves into the plot which gets more baffling as it progresses.
Ralph Spence, author of "The Corilla," another mystery comedy classic, is author of the story which is cleverly conceived with a view for providing entertainment and exciting film fare. The chilling and thrilling moments are cleverly balanced with the comedy relief and with swift, dramatic action in such a manner as to keep the interest at a high pitch throughout.

ASHVILLE

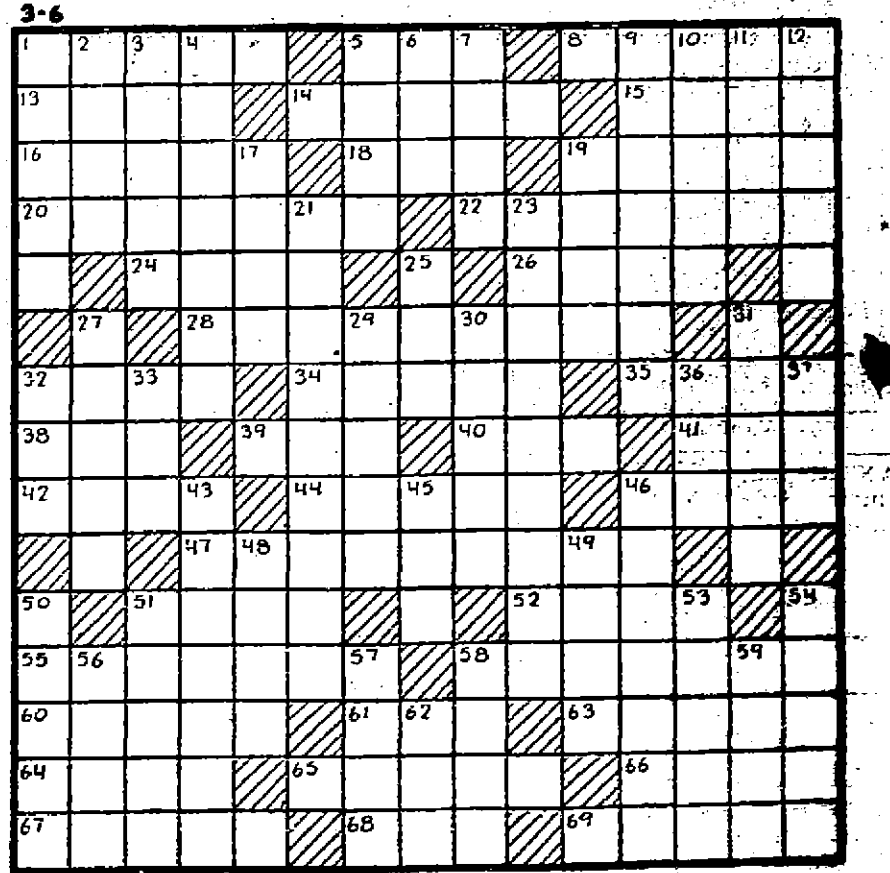

An all-day meeting of the U. B.
Church Missionary Society was held March 3 at the home of Mrs.
Mable Jinks, north of Ashville.
A covered dish dinner was served at the noon hour.
A nice program was arranged for the afternoon.
Mr. and Mrs. Myrl Smith visited Saturday afternoon at the home of his parents near Circleville.
Miss Marietta Fortner has returned home after visiting in Columbus for the past three weeks.
Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Prushing and Mrs. Grover Cline were in Circleville Friday afternoon on a shopping trip.
Bob Hedges, a student at Ohio State, came home for over the week-end.

KINGSTON

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Dresbach of Columbus spent the week-end at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ada Dresbach and family.
Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Long and Mrs. E. P. May were visitors to Chillicothe on Wednesday and enjoyed lunch at the Moore's Grill.
Lever Breeden and Miss Olive Dickson will sing a duet at the Sunday morning service in the M.
E. church.
Robert Blanchard of Kingsport, Tenn., arrived on Thursday to spend a few days with his sister, daughters, Mrs. Ruth Woolever and Miss Edna Rice assistant hostesses.

The meeting was called to order at 1:45 o'clock with the president Miss Mary L. Harpster in the chair and all singing, "This is My Father's World," and Mrs. Woolever at the piano. The devotionals were in charge of Mrs. S. A. Teague, who read the eleventh chapter of Hebrews, the "Faith Chapter" closing with prayer.
The song "Cheering Some One On" was followed by the reading of the minutes of the February meeting by the secretary, Miss Harpster reported that a large bag of carpet rag balls had been sent to the Veterans hospital at Dayton.
Mrs. Bessie Allen reported that two layettes have been completed and the president appointed a committee composed of Mrs. W. L. Evans and Mrs. S.
A. Teague to place a layette in Kingston and Mrs. Anna Rice and Mrs. Ora Dumm a committee for the community of Meade. Mrs.
Bessie Allen was given a new department to work that of Medical Temperance director. A number of letters of thanks for the dinners sent to the "shut ins" and sick members at the time of the all day meeting in February. The president announced that the Pickaway County Institute will be held on Friday, all day, March 10 in the Sunday School room of the Presbyterian church in Circleville and the medal contest will be held on Friday, March 17, in the evening.
One new name was added to the roll that of Mrs. Dorothy Cline.
Plans for the Institute meeting to be held in April were discussed.
The following leaflets were read—Mrs. Zerelda G. Wallace, "A Cri-sader of Charm and Culture," by Mrs. David McGorkle, a "Victor, Tribute of Mother-Thomson," "The First Crusader" by Mrs. S. A. Teague, "His Up to Me" by Lillian Hing-ton, Mrs. Margaret "Bye" Ellis, "A Prayerful and Prudent Crusader" by Miss Katherine Brundage, "Looking Forward to Sixtieth Anniversary of the Crusade 1834" by Mrs. George Gill, a visitor, "In Remembrance of Her 'You' Send a Field," by Mrs. Lyman Penn, a visitor, "Let Prohibition Begin at Home," by Mrs. Bessie Allen. Miss Harpster announced that the next meeting at the local Institute will be held at her home on the first Wednesday in April. Mrs. Bessie Miller closed the meeting with prayer. The hostesses served whipped jello with whipped cream, cake coffee and candy to eighteen members and six visitors.

"Baby Marie" in Real Drama

Once the darling of America, when she starred on the screen as "Baby Marie" Osborne, Mrs. Frank Dempsey, of Los Angeles, is today the heroine of a real life drama, stranger than any she played for the films. When she grew up and ceased to be a box office draw, "Baby Marie" met a reversal of fortune and has been clerking in a 5-and-10 store. Recently she discovered that her father, of whose existence she was unaware, had been searching for her all these years, having amassed a fortune which will be hers. Here Mrs. Dempsey is shown with her husband. Inset is a photo made when she was at the peak of film popularity.

Business and Professional Women Of Nation Observe National Week

Thirteen hundred and twenty-five business and professional women's clubs in an equal number of cities, including Cincinnati, from coast to coast will today launch the sixth annual observance of National Business Women's Week.

The program will be varied, including forums for the discussion of community problems, employment relief luncheons, dedicated to a study of the status of the unemployed white collar girl, meetings to arouse interest in public education, prosperity campaigns to stimulate community buying, and many similar projects.

Throughout the week emphasis will be placed upon the citizenship responsibilities of business women.

The program is in line with a Ten-Year Objective adopted by the organization two years ago, which pledges the Federation to an intensive study of economic problems and their social implications, with a view to the achievement of a higher measure of social justice than at present prevails.

While the study extends into state and national fields, the clubs are making community problems their immediate concern. "What is wrong with the American community?" is the question they are inviting interested citizens to discuss with them in a Public Affairs Day program during the week.

In preparation for these meetings the clubs have been formulating their own suggested programs for civic reform. They are asking other community organizations to offer similar suggestions and will then attempt to work out a practical method for putting some of the more important of the suggested changes into operation.

They will combat the tendency to curtail educational budgets as an economy measure by sponsoring programs in cooperation with school authorities which will emphasize the merits of the educational system, and also emphasize instances in which the system has been crippled by injudicious economies.

Newly elected office holders will be invited to attend their meetings and to outline the platform they are pledged to support. The fifth annual observance of National Business Women's Week, in March of 1932, had the official endorsement not only of President Hoover, but of governors of 21 states and mayors of 227 Municipalities. An even more widespread endorsement will launch this year's observance.

The following proclamation was signed by Governor George White: It is a pleasure for me as chief executive of this state to endorse National Business Women's Week, which is to be observed from March 5 to 11 this year.

Women have contributed much in the commercial and professional life of the nation, and a wonderful opportunity is afforded them in the present industrial crisis to assist in solving the serious problems as they affect both men and women as breadwinners.

This state is among the foremost in the Union in the advancement of women in public affairs, and it is a source of gratification to me that we have so many able and public-spirited women who are not only a credit to themselves, but bring honor to our state.

Signed—GEORGE WHITE, Governor.

Robert Griffith and Medford Good, of Columbus, spent the week-end at their homes here.

CERMAK DIES

Zangara has been held in the Duval-co jail pending the outcome of his wounding of Mayor Cermak and Mrs. Joseph Gill, 36-year-old wife of a wealthy utility official, in the attempt 19 days ago on the life of the then President-Elect Roosevelt.

He already is under sentence of 80 years on pleas of guilty entered to four counts in the assassination attempt. He was given the maximum sentence of 20 years on each of the four charges.

CHICAGO, March 6.—In view of the death of Mayor Anton J. Cermak city officials today were of one opinion that the city council will select a mayor pro-tem to serve as the city's chief executive.
